

4) Baking

This is similar to trying out a new recipe but this time make something sweet. You could make a cake, cookies, muffins or any other sweet treat you want to try. Now that the weather is improving you might want to make some ice lollies. Baking is one of my favourite activities... mostly because, once you've finished, you get to eat whatever you've baked! Being in quarantine doesn't need to stop you eating things you love.

5) Pinterest DIY

Pinterest is full of great ideas for you to try out. Simply find one you like and get started.

Then compare yours to the original and see how well you did. You could even post a picture of your quarantine crafts on Pinterest so people can see what you've been up to.

6) Paint/draw

I don't want to hear anyone saying "I can't draw" or "I'm rubbish at art". Art is just a way of expressing yourself. Think like 'the Impressionists' did... if it doesn't look like an exact copy of the thing you were drawing, don't worry! People put too much pressure on themselves when it comes to art. If you have fun doing it then that's all that matters.

Have a go – you might enjoy it.

7) Crafts

If you've got some paper/card and some selotape lying around then you can start crafting. Being in quarantine might stop you getting supplies but that doesn't mean you can't make something. Just use what you've got and see what you can come up with. It'll be great to let your imagination go wild. You could even make yourself a game to play!
